Old Soul Young Heart

Greener

Written by: Olivia Steele | Tamara Stewart

"Greener" is for anyone that has ever left somewhere in pursuit of something more. The song exists in the duality of the hopeful prospect of a new beginning and the melancholy sadness of leaving familiarity and comfort behind. The song details specific visuals to portray a story of leaving, even though a place may serve you in some aspects of your life it can no longer be your "forever home".

Misunderstood

Written by: Olivia Steele | Bridgette Tatum

For the perpetually misunderstood. So many of us have had seasons of life where it feels like no matter what you do, everyone around you has a different idea of who you are and who you should be. This hopeful anthem drives home the idea that even though people around you may not understand, stay true to yourself because that's the best way to be.

Kill a Dream

Written by: Olivia Steele | Kirsti Manna

This song was inspired by anyone who has had a dream but has tried to talk themselves out of it because the mountain seems too high to climb. Throughout the song you grapple with no matter how much you try to push something aside and tell yourself you'll be fine without following the dream, nothing will ever be as fulfilling as chasing it down.

The Ledge

Written by: Olivia Steele | Bill DiLuigi

This song intimately visits the battle with the various coping mechanisms we use as a crutch to get through the challenges of life. There is a desperation in all of us, clinging to what small fraction of stability we can find.

Told Me Then

Written by: Olivia Steele | Pete Sallis

An open letter to a childhood self. In the autobiographical "Told Me Then" Olivia reflects on different times of her life, the decisions and the experiences that she went through and reflects on them with melancholy gratitude.

Right Where You Left It

Written by: Olivia Steele | Bill DiLuigi

This funky rock song "Right Where You Left It" explores the movement of time and the decisions that you make with it. Time continues to move around all of us whether we want it to or not and every decision we make acts as a catalyst for the movement of time.

Shelter

Written by: Olivia Steele | Bill DiLuigi

"No Shelter" was a fun song to write, born from a conversation about the 'dopamine chasing hamster wheel' many of us exist on and as much as we all don't enjoy it we are unsure how to get off of it. It touches upon the continual influx of bad news and negativity that litters culture and media where
